Victory Issue!

Rosh Hashonah 5706

IN THE HOUR OF TRIUMPH

Behind us lie 3½ years of deadly struggle in which, with God's help, we have prevailed. So, today, we celebrate a victory.

After the celebration, what lies ahead?

For most of us, the outlook is a bright one. If we will simply use the brains, the will, the energy, the enterprise . . . the materials and resources . . . with which we won our war, we can't fail to win the peace and to make this the richest, happiest land the world has known.

For most of us, the years ahead are bright with promise. But for others of us—and, ironically enough, their part in bringing victory was a major one—the years to come must bear a different look.

In America today are hundreds of thousands of injured men. Men with neatly pinned-up sleeves and trousers. Blinded men. Men with clever iron hooks instead of hands. Worst of all, men with hurt and darkened minds.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. We can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

Far away from America today are millions of Americans. As we would be, they're on fire to get back—to their wives, to the children some of them have never seen, to their jobs.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. And we can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

This is our day of triumph. But it's theirs too—the injured men, the men who are still far away.

Let's not forget them, in our just rejoicing. And the one way we can help most to care for our wounded . . . to bring our veterans home . . . to give them a fresh start in the country they fought for . . . to care for the families of those who died before the victory was won . . . is simply this:

Buy all the Bonds you can. Keep all the Bonds you buy.

JOB PREFERENCE FOR VETS?

A SYMPOSIUM WITH STANLEY HIGH AS MODERATOR

A FEW weeks ago I returned from a trip to the European battle fronts. I talked with a lot of GI's—men and women—in France and Belgium and Germany. In the mud and muck of battle those service men and women have undergone all sorts of handicaps. They've lived for months under the threat of instant death. They've seen their comrades die. We don't argue about what these men and women have done or what they deserve. They deserve the best this country can do for them. They deserve a fair break and they must get it.

Well, what is a fair break, and what is also a fair break for those other millions of patriotic Americans who have served where they best could serve—on production lines and war plants here at home? That's where our argument begins.

In this symposium on whether the veteran should have job preference, saying "yes" are Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of Selective Service, and Shipbuilder Andrew Jackson Higgins. Saying "no" are John Green, president of the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilders Workers of America, CIO, and Dennis Wiegand, executive secretary of the American Veterans Committee.

Editor's note: The Jewish Veteran is proud to present this symposium through special arrangement with America's Town Meeting of the Air and the Reader's Digest. Mr. High is a noted writer and lecturer and a member of the editorial staff of Reader's Digest since 1940. The Town Meeting of the Air is broadcast every Thursday over the American Broadcasting Company network.
